Located on the southwest corner of Kentucky and Ninth, this was LHS when the first Red and Black, the 1913 edition, was published.

The Manual Arts building was on the northwest corner of Ninth and Kentucky.

LHS, today, is located in the center of a residental section of south Lawrence on the corner of Nineteenth and Louisiana. This is looking east.

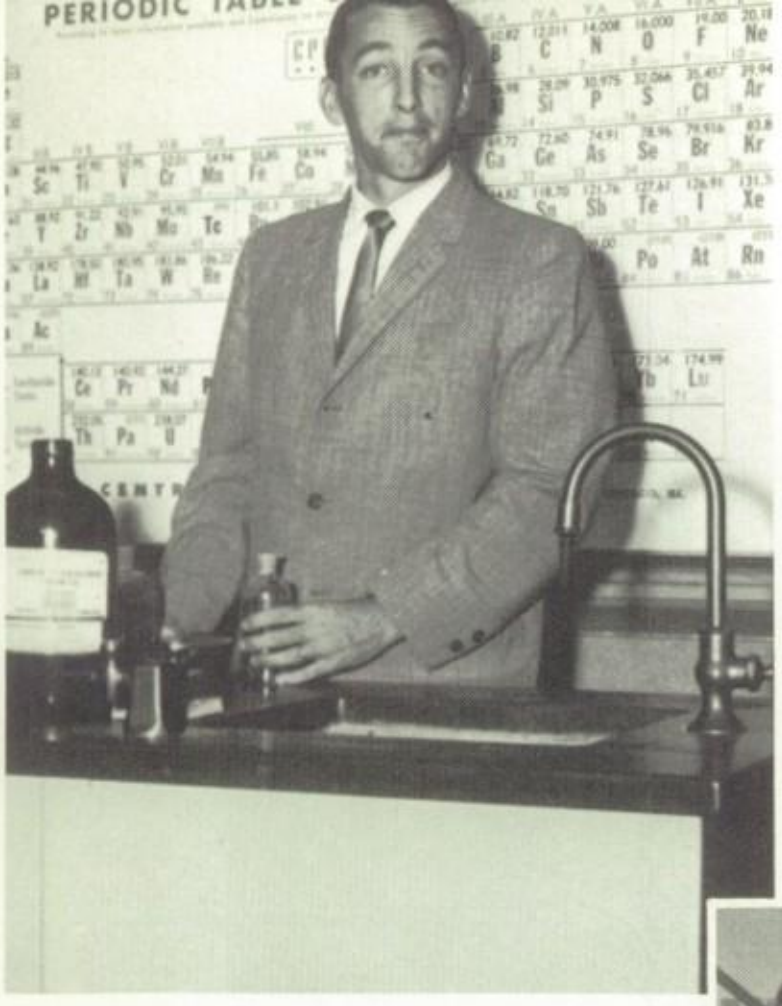
Since the first RED & BLACK in 1913, LHS has steadily improved. The big move to the new senior high school at Fourteenth and Massachusetts came in 1923. Then in 1954, the students moved to the present building at Nineteenth and Louisiana. This being the fiftieth anniversary of the RED & BLACK, we wish to show this progress in pictures and words.

Neal M. Wherry, principal

dedication

We the students of Lawrence High wish to dedicate this 1963 RED & BLACK to our principal, Neal M. Wherry, who for thirty years has ably guided students through these very important years. It is with sincere appreciation and gratitude that we perform this service to honor our revered principal.



Mr. Steve Sublett, a member of the faculty, teaches chemistry. Pouring, boiling, mixing and anything else a chemistry instructor might do are his specialities.

Teachers chaperoned all-school parties; here are Mr. and Mrs. Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Grove, Miss Beckner and Mr. Roth as they keep an eye of approval on the dance in progress.

Faculty members for 1912-1913 posed very formally for their picture in the annual. Such rigid formality now done away with, the students enjoy a much more free and easy association with members of the faculty.

New additions to the faculty this year instilled in many students a desire to study. This faculty was one of the finest that LHS has ever been privileged to have. With the standards of instruction going up, the quality of education rose to new heights and the students' benefits were immeasurable.

Serving the north line were Margaret Hardtarfer, Janet Carr, Student, Dorothy Rake, Betty Sale, Irene Busse, Fern Good and Agnes Malone.

Custodians were Mrs. W. B. Shuster, W. B. Shuster, Roy Goff, Jim Riepen, Roy Chaney, W. R. (Shortie) Matherly, Howard Kampschroeder, Floyd Heffner and Head Custodian, Don Brink.

The LHS orchestra in 1913 consisted of only twelve members, compared to this year's membership of sixty.

Students new to LHS this year had experience with the discussion groups under the team-teaching system.

Classes at LHS have always offered challenges to the students who are willing to take the initiative. Double 'A' classes are available all three years.

To any student at LHS the door to new and different fields of study is open.

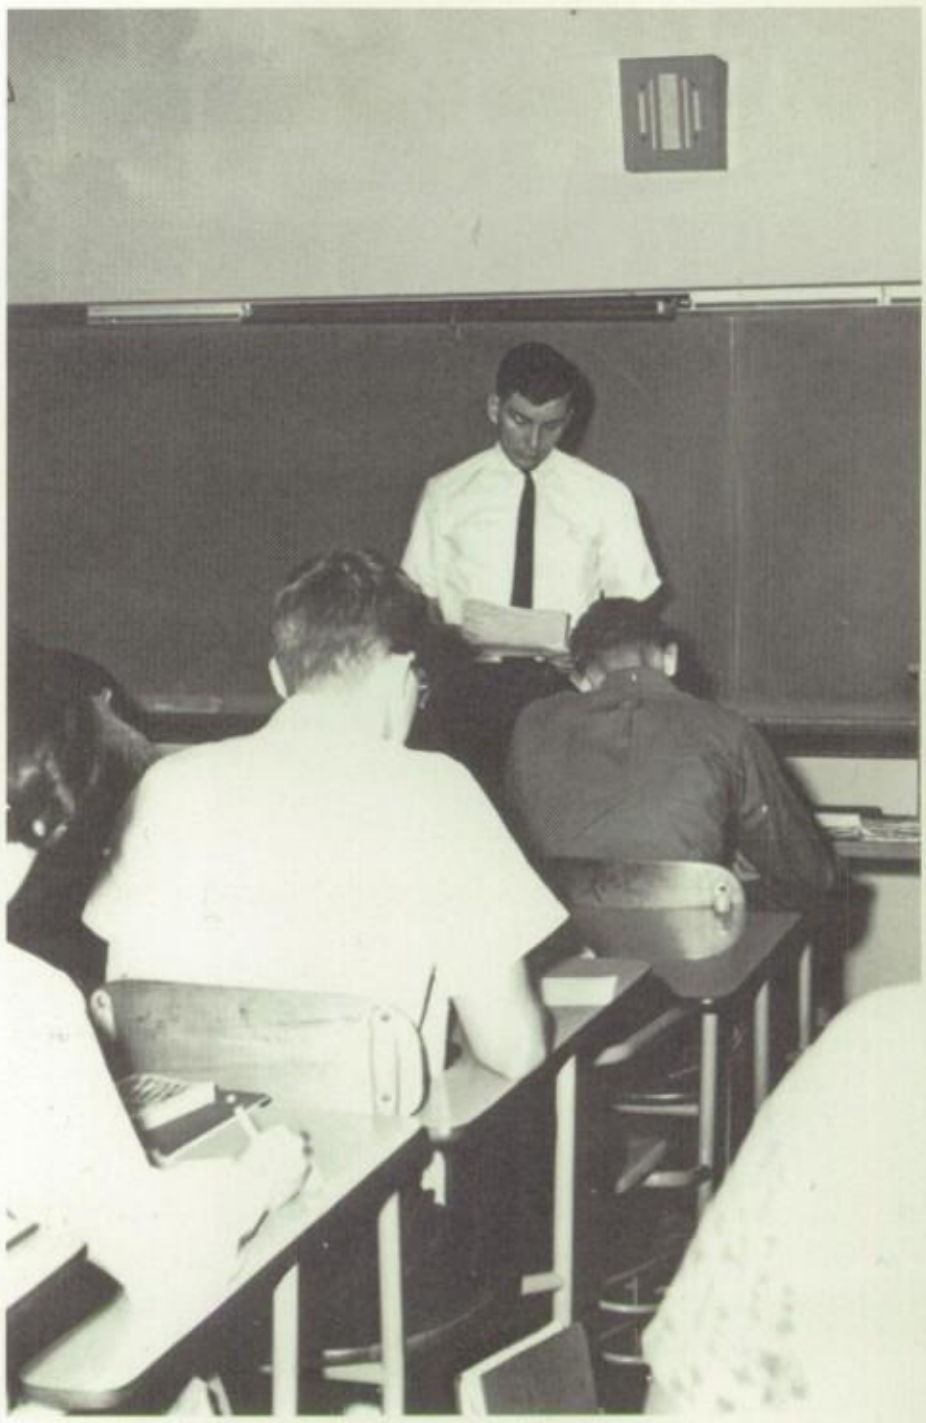
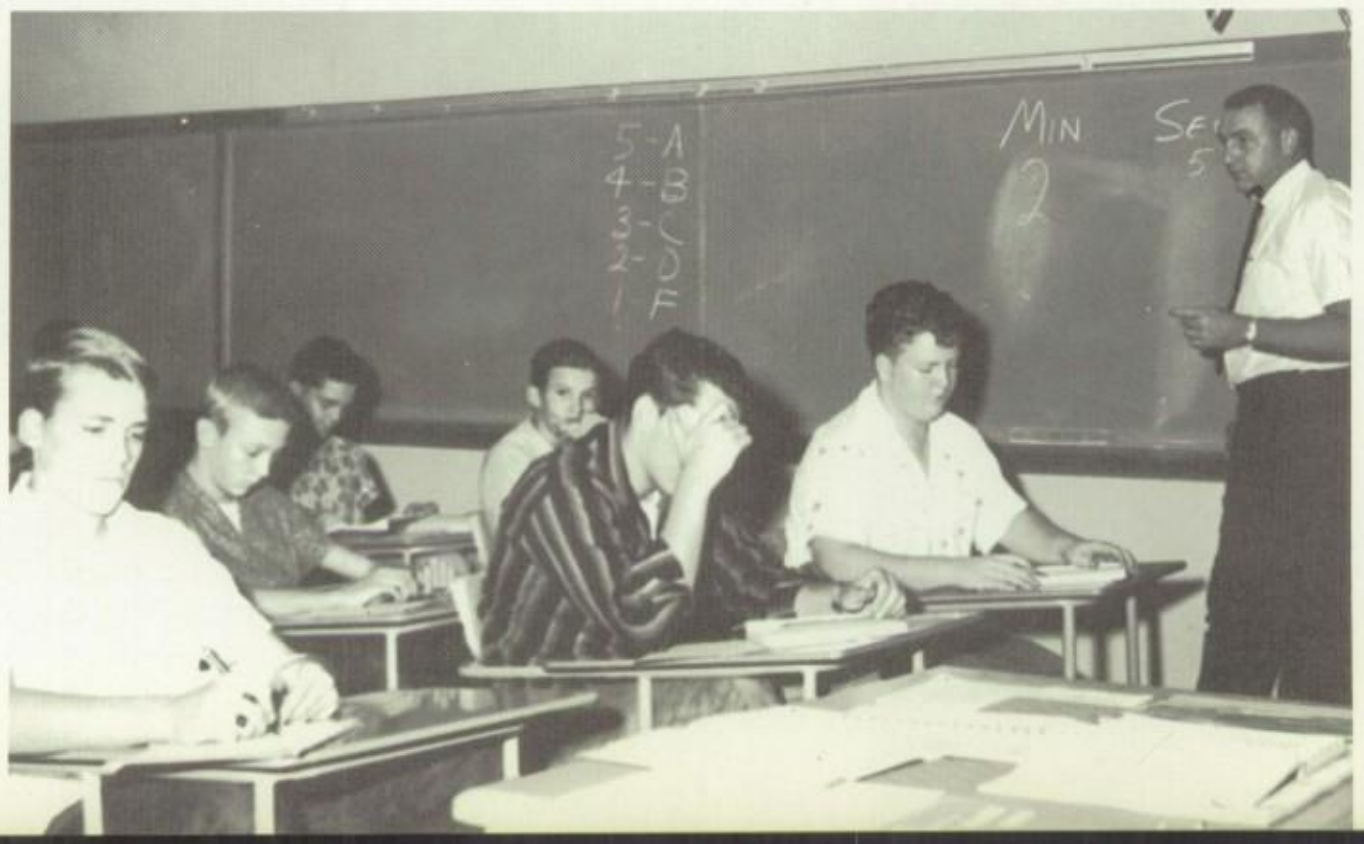
of literature

English for LHS students this year offered a wide variety of study. Study of classics, Silas Marner and Julius Caesar for sophomores, The Scarlet Letter and Macbeth for juniors, and The Mayor of Casterbridge and Hamlet for seniors played an important part in the classes. Creative writing was also stressed in many classes, "The Dandy Lion" being the end result.



Mr. Rhoades, senior English teacher, prepares to give his class a book review question to write.

Sophomores in Mr. Gibson's English class take timed readings to estimate their reading skill and rate so that they can improve on their reading techniques.



Sara Paretsky recites her poetry to her junior English class as they listen attentively.

Mr. Keltcher helps Debbie Allen with a problem in senior English class first hour.

Sophomores in Mr. Samson's English find it hard to concentrate on any class work on a Friday of a football game when spirit runs high.

Seniors in Mr. Wright's class listens as he lectures to them. It must have been interesting because the students seem to be entranced.

more and better coverage of school events

The BUDGET staff under the sponsor, Mr. Samson, and editor, Marguaret Peterson, worked together recording news of life around the school.

The journalism class tracked news, gathered facts and wrote the copy that went into the paper that is bi-weekly in publication.

Mr. Samson discusses plans for the paper with Marguaret Peterson, editor; Nancy Sanders; and Carl Weinaug, business manager.

BUDGET reporters Lee Keen, Vicky Mingos, Karon Noland, Mary Thompson, Sharon Russell, Janis Miller, Karen Kolars, Glenda Hallenbeck, Linda McMillin and Garett Craig fold papers for distribution. Standing: ad salesmen Henry Booth and Bill Trull. Hidden: Fred Winters and Rick Thomas.

Newspaper reporters who were new to Quill and Scroll were: Sharon Russell, Kathy Vaughn, Joan McCabe, Glenda Hallenbeck, Lee Keen, Mary Thompson and Janice Miller.

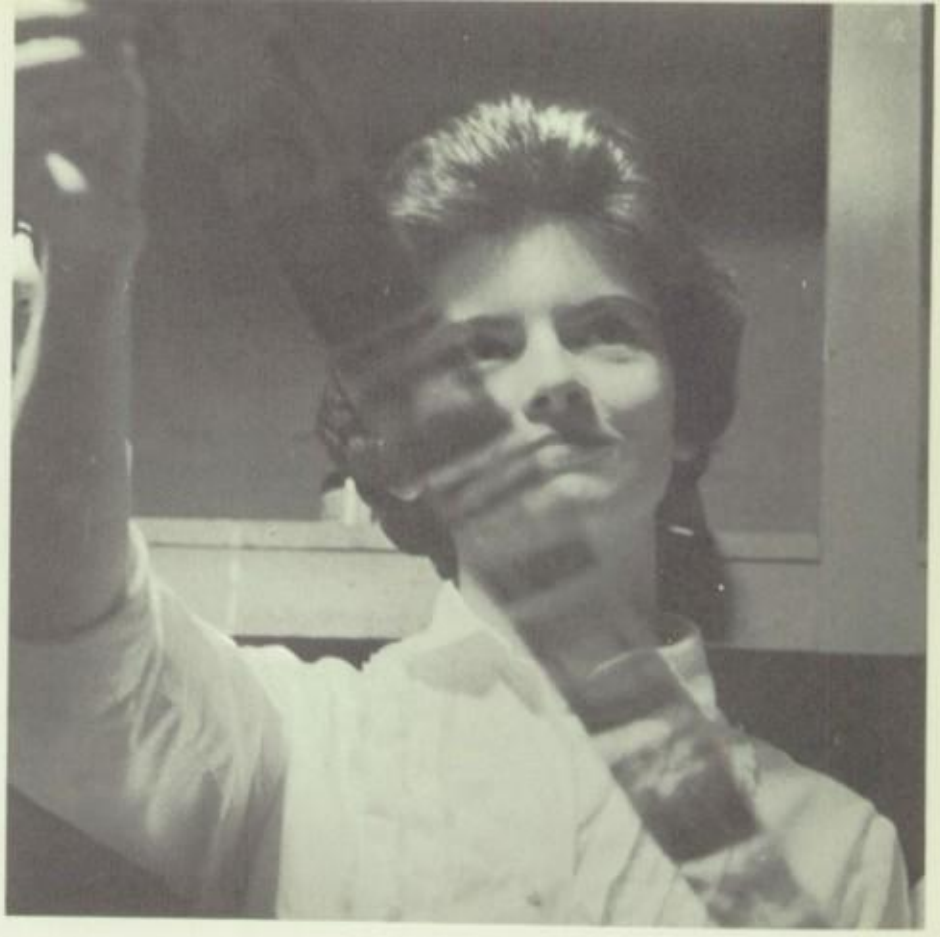
anniversary sparks new trends

The 1963 yearbook is the 50th anniversary edition of the RED AND BLACK. By arranging for the students to receive their yearbooks in August instead of May, the staff was able to include the spring sports, junior-senior prom, graduation and the last day of school.

Work on the 1963 RED AND BLACK began in the spring of 1962 with the selection of Jennifer Hanna as the editor. During the summer Jennifer Hanna and Reece Wiley attended journalism camp at Kansas State University where they acquired the new ideas used in the 1963 yearbook.



Jennifer Hanna, editor, looks over some of the negatives to select pictures to go in the annual.

Layout editor, Reece Wiley, plans and draws pages for the annual.

The yearbook staff this year, besides sitting on the editor's playhouse, did get the yearbook out on time. The staff included Janet Milleret, Mary Pomije, Reece Wiley, Jennifer Hanna and mascot, Charlie.

languages

to help understanding

Foreign languages extend an opportunity to learn more about the source of many words in our English language and also to acquaint us with the people and customs of foreign countries.

French students experienced the opportunity of reciting poetry and reading plays. This helped not only to improve their diction but also acquainted them with the written language.

Before the Christmas holidays, students studying Spanish became familiar with the customs and traditions of the Latin American countries by making piñatas and singing Christmas carols in the language. The attendance of several Spanish speaking foreign students in the Spanish classes and participation in national tests gave the LHS students greater insight into the language.

German students also enjoyed the preholidays by singing Christmas carols. Latin students partook in national tests.

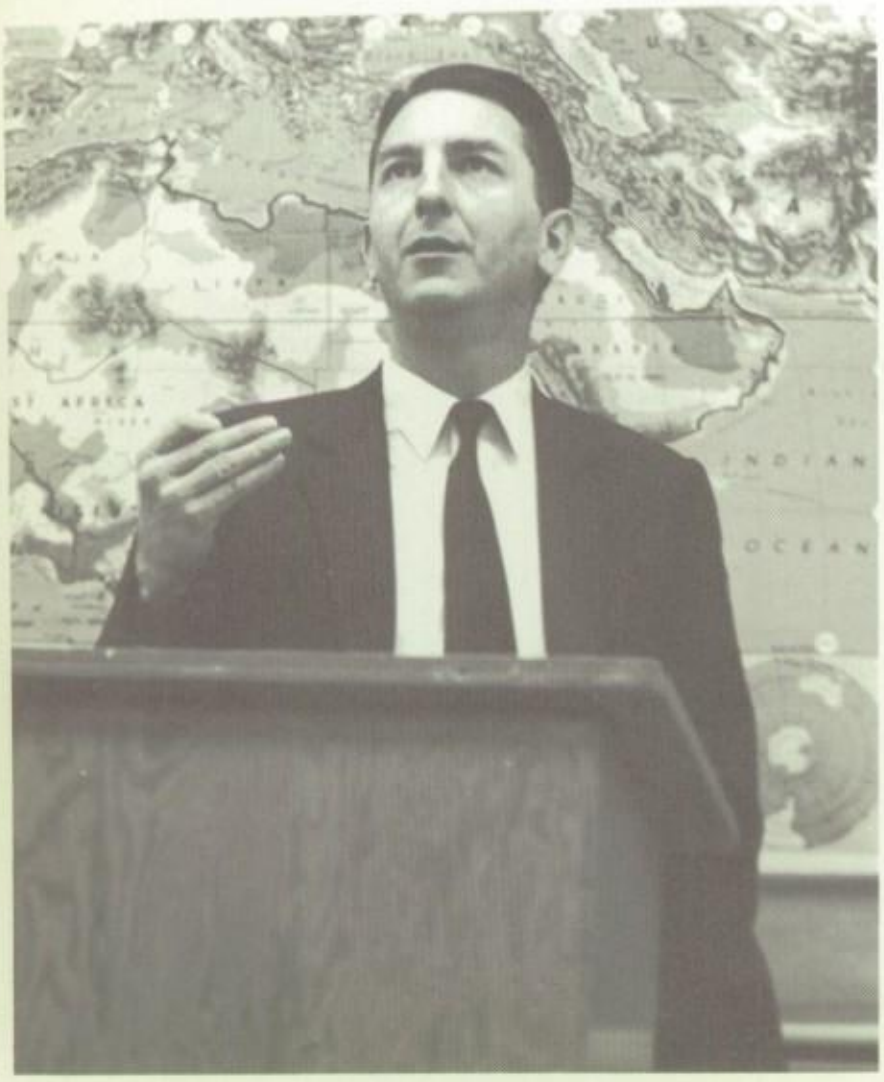
extends student's initiative and interest

The Social Studies department during the past years has become very complex and this year was no exception.

A variety of teachers was beneficial to the students. Team-teaching allowed the classes to have different teachers lecture on specific fields of study in each class. This not only provided more information but also a new face from time to time.

The students were offered the usual histories of America and world and also American government for the seniors. In the government classes special speakers were heard from the local banks and the Social Security Department. A trip was also taken in the early spring to the Legislature. The classes also had special sections during the second semester on economics, psychology and communism.

One of the afternoon guest speakers answers a question from the audience.

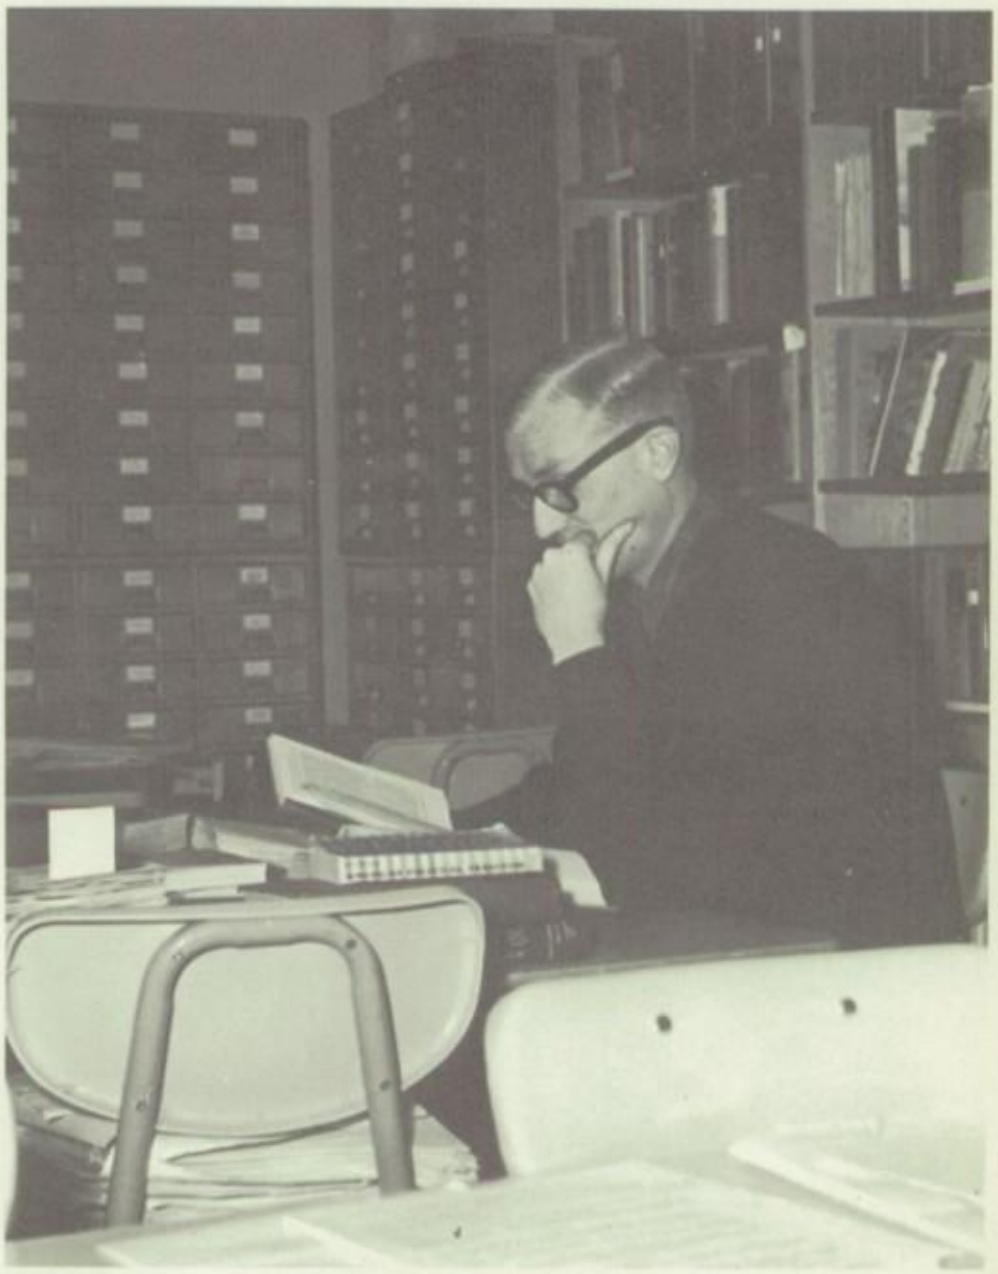


Representatives of the government classes Karen Finfrock, David Richardson, Nancy Maloney, Mary Middlestadt and teacher Mr. Binns talk with two Democrat candidates who ran for the state positions.

Advanced sections were held within each social studies class. One special 'AA' class of "The history of Modern China and Japan" was taught by Mr. Mehlinger. In the class guest speakers were heard and a field trip was taken to the Kansas Legislature and to the Nelson Art Gallery to see the East Asian collection.

After school students also had the opportunity to hear seminar speakers and take trips. A student committee, with the guidance of Mr. Mehlinger, was able to enlist speakers coming to K.U. to talk to the LHS students.

Mr. Finkleston reads up on his American Government to prepare to grade one of the discussion groups.



Seniors Colleen Wright, Mary Bodin and Satia Turner get a little extra study time in during 'A' period in preparation for their discussion in advanced course China and Japan.

Students interested in the many different phases of science enrolled in science club. Guest speakers lectured at club meetings, and some members went on field trips during vacations and on weekends.

There are five areas of science that students could take: biology, advanced biology, chemistry, industrial science and physics. In the chemistry area special experimental classes were taught by Mr. Watson. Biology and physics classes also had experimental classes, using the new series of BSCS. The physics class was the only one being taught in Kansas under this new method of individual reasoning.

Mark Roberts takes one of his many snakes out of its cage for a little exercise. He also has many other creatures in his bedroom.

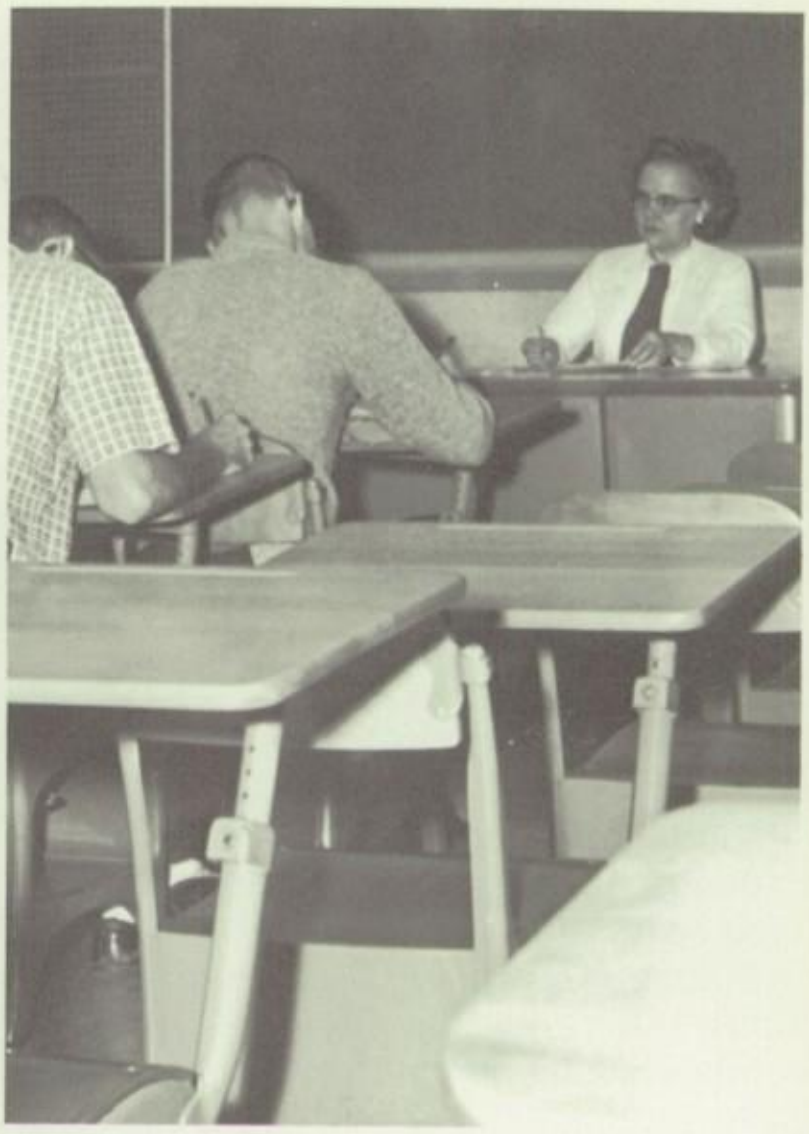
figures and numbers

Taking notes from Mrs. McReynolds lecture are Robert McGee, Cathy Hyder, Janet Milleret, Judy Denton, Colleen Wright, Nancy Ulmer and Mike Lewis, during calculus third hour.



Mrs. Masih watches David Kennedy as he takes a test in first hour trig.

Mathematics, the universal language of numbers, includes algebra, geometry, trigonometry, statistics, and calculus with analytic geometry.

Students in the various classes are challenged by trapezoids, quadratic equations, sines and cosines, square roots, and velocity and acceleration. From these, students acquire a new vocabulary, a new way of reasoning, and a new knowledge of mathematics.

Mr. Racy is available to help the students with their homework problems.

investigate and present negative and/or affirmative

Many students, who were interested in public speaking, attended the debate and forensics class which was held late hour. The first semester was focused on debate, while interest was on forensics the second semester.

As a result of the practice the students gained, the debate team earned profitable experience in speaking on the spur of the moment to defend either the negative or the affirmative.

Students in forensics showed their talent in duet acting, extemporaneous speaking and comical reading. The results of this came to the eyes of the student body when the participants received excellent ratings at the district and state level.

Debaters Connie Stucky, Connie Cooper, Mike Bar-Levav, and Mr. Rhoades meet in the hall before starting out to a debate meet.

aid students with books while learning techniques

The art classes studied and experimented with colors and perspective. The craft classes worked with leather, metal, wood, and clay. These classes made attractive displays of their work in the show cases various times during the year.

Senior Gary Scott puts the finishing touches on his creation during school time.

develop skills in fields of artistic endeavor

Library science students aided Miss Curry with the library work. They learned to appreciate books and library work more.

Student had opportunity to catch up on their studying, extra reading or any other activity that is possible to do in the library.

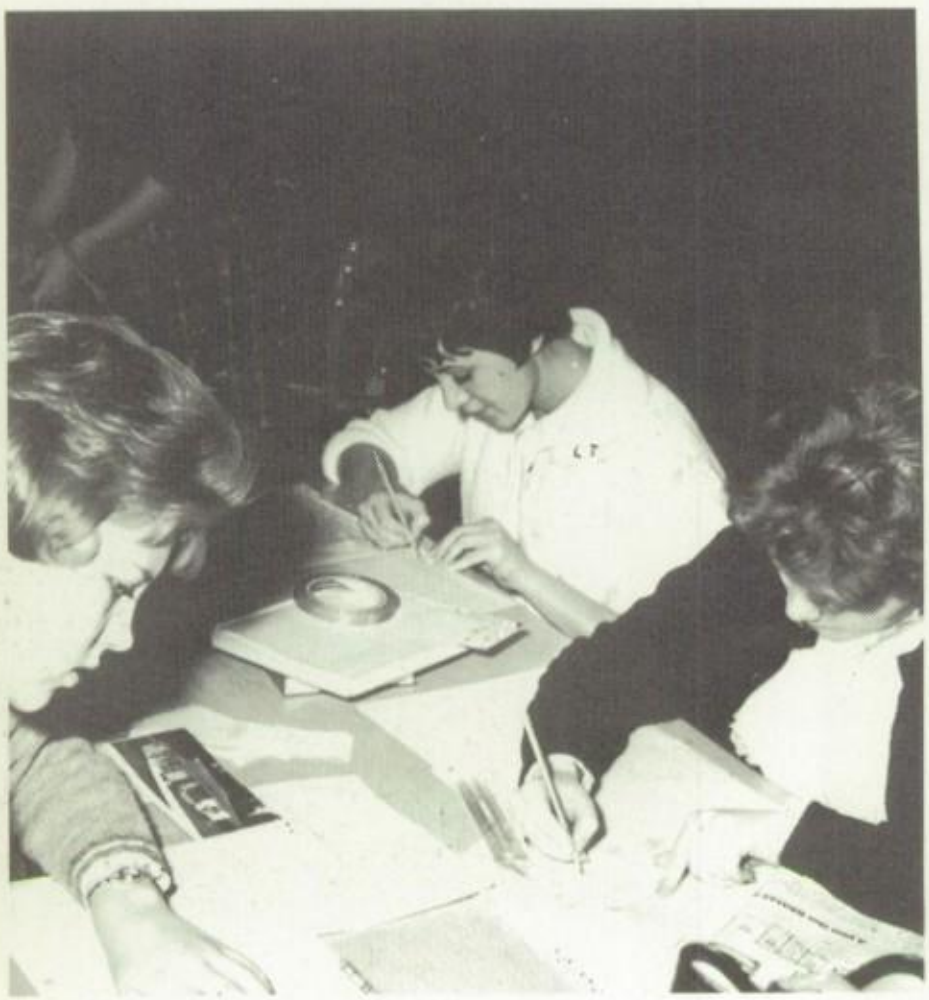
lay ground work for future homemaking



Home economics at LHS is composed of three classes: foods, clothing, and family living. In foods classes, the girls learn how to prepare nutritious, appetizing meals. In clothing, they enlarge their wardrobes with attractive and economical garments. Topics studied in family living classes included interior decorating and dealing with family problems.

Seniors Janet Elkins, Lena Tummons and Sheryl Anderson in family living work on their house plans for their dream house.

Kay Turner and Ardell Bryant get practice sewing on their projects for home economics while gaining additions to their wardrobes.

vocational agriculture

The vocational agriculture class gives the boys practical experience at farm management. They complete projects in livestock, crops and shopwork, and learn to keep accurate records on all things that they do on the farm.

Frank Brown helps his partner in welding a frame work together.

Harold Barnes and Allen Mitchell utilize their welding skill.

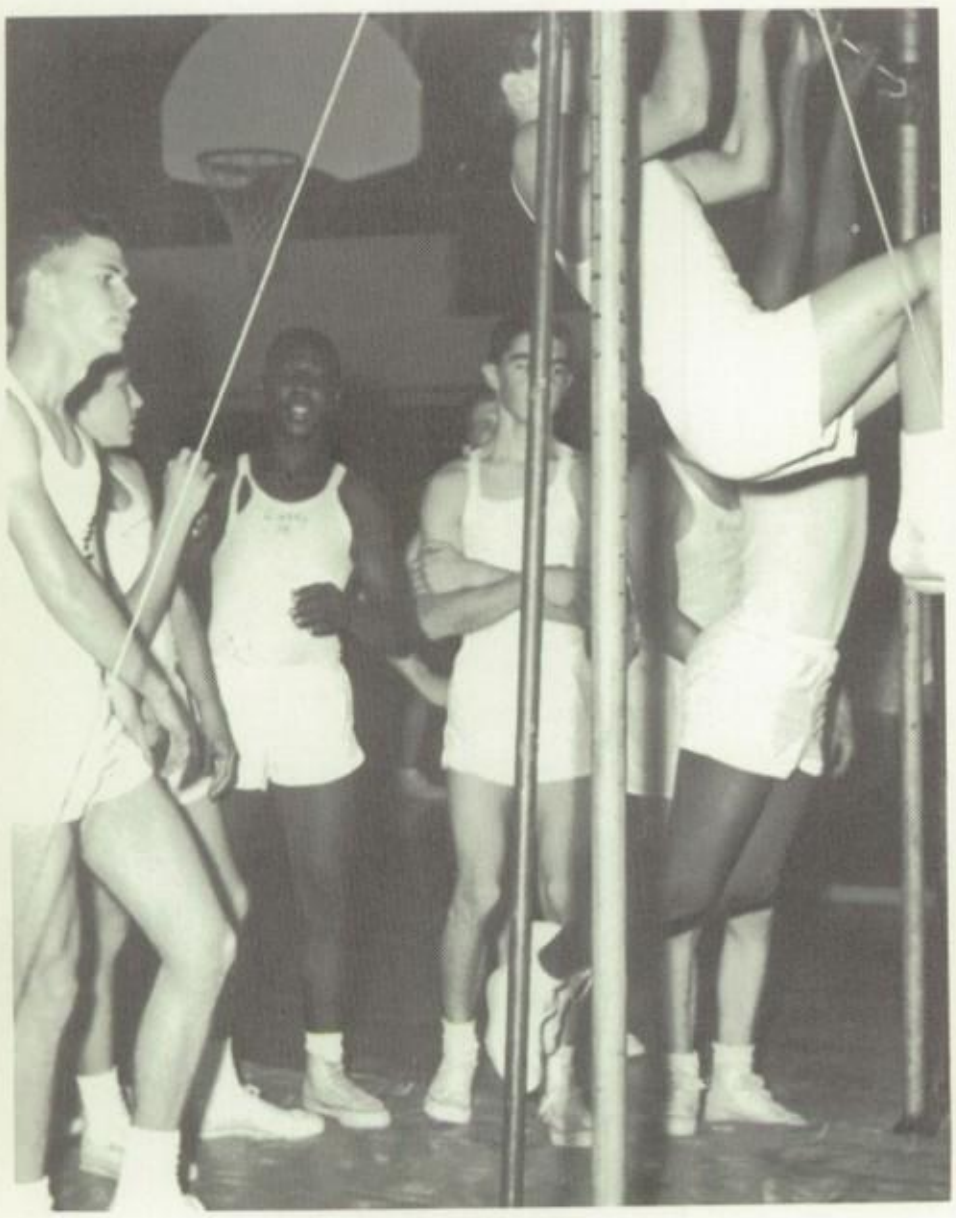
keep fit and trim
thru various activities



Boys in gym had the opportunity to work on the apparatus. The high bar was just one of the pieces used.

Boys Physical Education, under Dad Perry, permits its participants to keep physically fit and trim. This class is the opportunity for the boys to develop athletic skills.

Friday was again the day for the sophomores to enjoy the fun of a mixed class. Square dancing was a favorite activity plus volleyball and soft ball, and also informative films concerning health.

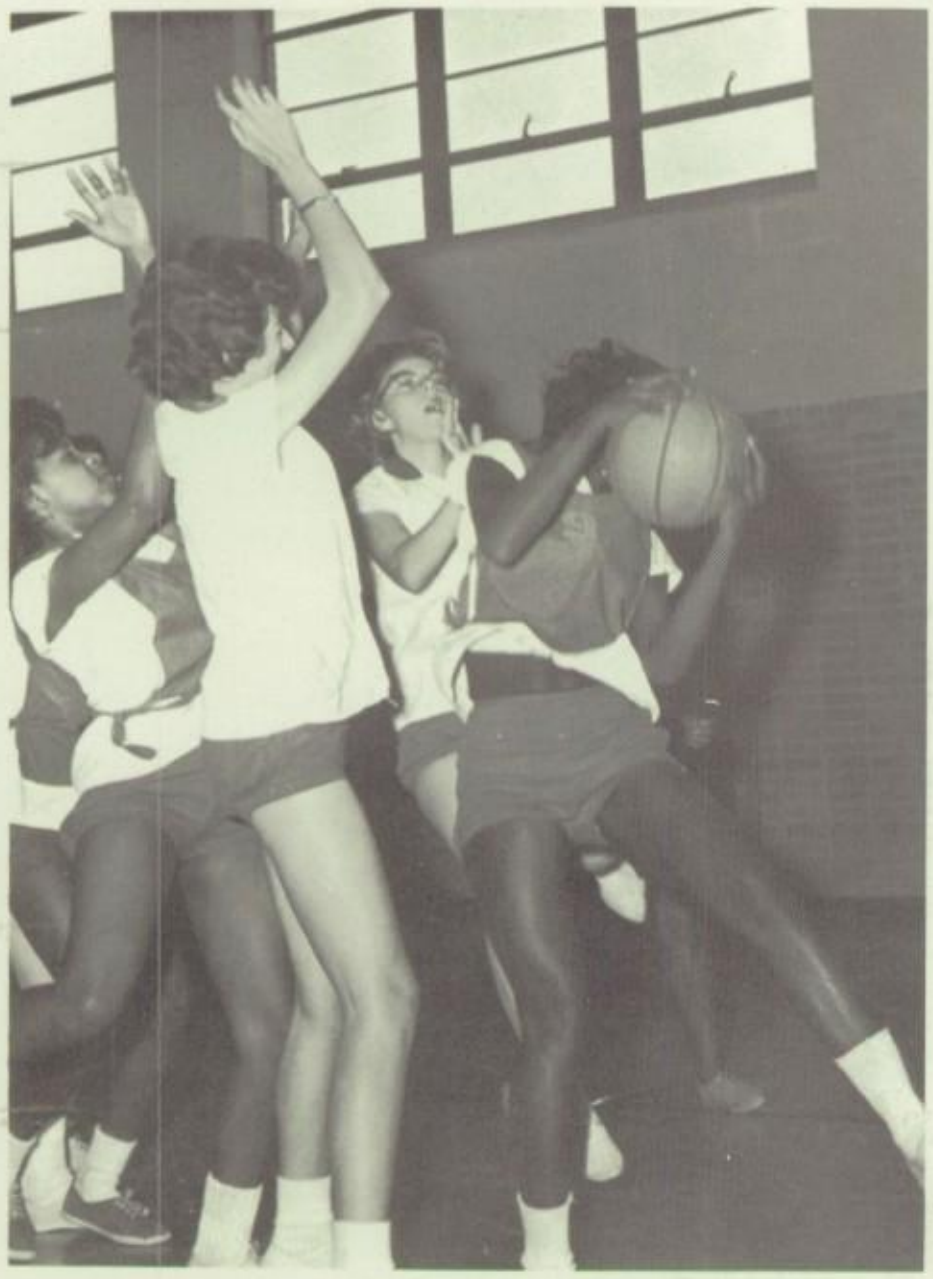
keep physically fit; prepare for sports show



Sophomores play hard to win the inter-class tournament in basketball.

The LHS Girls Physical Education Department, under the direction of Mrs. Maxwell, is one of the best in our state.

This year, in addition to the usual exercise program, class time has been devoted to both the development of skills and the actual participation in basketball, volleyball, speedball, apparatus, track and field, softball, and badminton.

An extensive intramural program includes team competition in deck tennis, basketball and volleyball plus individual competition in badminton and fencing. Also, each spring, the department is in charge of the Girls Sport Show.

Mr. Nelson leads the combined choruses in the finale of "For You A Song" to bring to an end the year for the choirs.

practice & perform on tour and present spring concerts

The sixty-five members of A Cappella, who were chosen for their voices and musical comprehension, met fourth hour every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The choir under the direction of R. Wayne Nelson practiced all year to present many concerts and special performances, among which were a fall concert, Christmas program, a spring concert and "For You A Song."

The highlight of the year was the "good will tour" held annually. This year the choir traveled to Wellington, Derby, Lebo and Wichita.

THIRD ROW: Pam Kuntz, Jerry Pearson, Tom Hanna, Mike Lang, John Michael, Stan Anderson, Steve Boehle, Fred Vance, Richard Luallin, Mike Fletcher, Bob Green, Richard Seaver, John Wissler and Marca Wagner. FOURTH ROW: John Webb, Greg Smith, Todd McCluggage, Ray Suffron, Stan Hubbard, Ken Whitenight, Dick Warner, Steve Heck, Bill Trull, Paul Hull, Larry Miller, Jim McCalla, Bob Green, Frank Brown and Ken Kreye. Not present Lee Reese.

pieces—perform well

Orchestra, under the baton of Mr. Don Beene, had a very successful and busy year at LHS. Because of the high caliber of the fifty-five students, the music played was more of standard literature than in previous years. The orchestra gave four main concerts during the year in which Elaine Milett and Alan Hitt played solos, and Bob Green was student conductor. Also, in February, fifteen students attended the KMEA at Kansas University.

Orchestra officers this year were secretary, Elaine Milett; president Gwen Stuart; and vice-president Patty McGrew.

practice, march, perform

This year tryouts were held toward the end of school year and 70 musicians were selected for the 'A' band. Approximately 50 were selected for 'B' band that rehearsed early hour MWF. With this new selective system, Mr. Kassinger, director, was able to raise the quality of the music.

The band this year performed at football half times, both at home and away, K.U. Band Day and presented both a winter and spring concert.

The pep band added to the support of home basketball games by playing before, during, and at the half-times.

During half-time at football games, the band formed many intricate patterns on the field. The "top hat" pictured here was just one.

One of the twirlers displays her talents with the fire baton during a football half-time.

learn manual trades

and skills during class

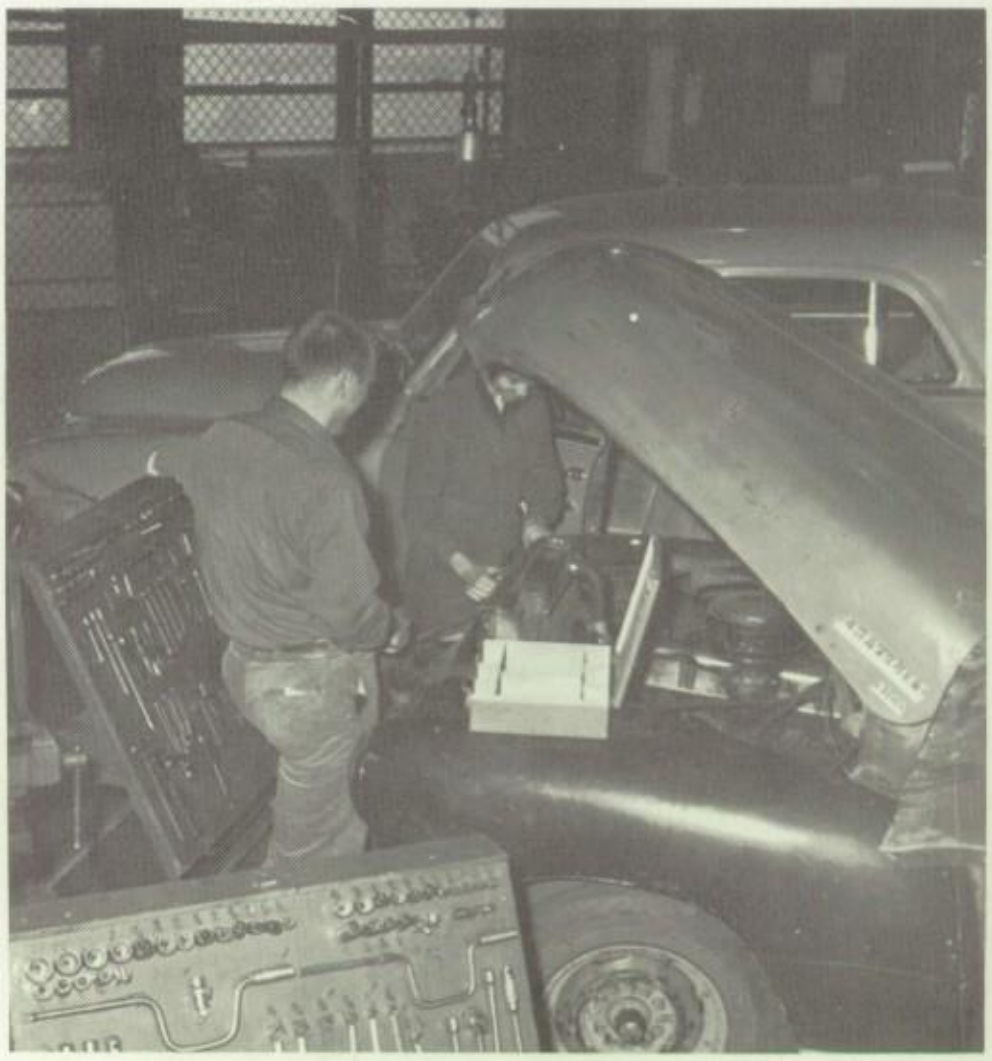
Goals of industrial arts courses are to give the students a background that will help them fit into the adult working world. They also provide means for the pupils to experiment with materials and shops of various kinds.

By practical experience in auto mechanics, printing, woodworking, welding, mechanical drawing, metal fabrication, and electronics, the students are assisted in finding an occupation for the future.

Randy Williams and John Wilson are all prepared to weld their project together during class.

Jerry Dennis reaches far into the car he is repairing to see if he can find the flaw.

Mr. Robertson advises Gary Harshberger on the proper tool to use when working on a car in auto mechanics.



John Fabriz and Stan Hayden watch as a student gets advice from Mr. Breithaupt.

David Morgan works on his project as he smoothes out the flaws on the lathe.

Gerald Grammer, Johnny Reusch, Larry Whitson, Jerry Avey, Tom Dolan, Teddy Nelson, Bob Kimball and Bob Musick work on all aspects of printing during the printing class.

vocational training

either college or employment

Secretarial-occupational classes extend the opportunity to acquire skills for either a career or a college education.

The secretarial-training program includes typing, shorthand, accounting, and office practice.

On-the-job training is featured for the occupational program. Here students learn to combine practice with theory which will help them to become more proficient in their chosen fields of endeavor.

Judi Knapp, secretary in the office gives student Joyce Floyd instruction on how to run the duplicator.

Senior Marjorie Norris pauses a moment with her employer and teacher, Miss Gauthier, to see how her job is coming along.

Mrs. Groh gives her shorthand class dictation for the girls to write on the board so that their notes can be checked.

Senior Gale Armbrister ponders on what to make his margins on his typing lesson.

Jane Sutton studies her bookkeeping during early hour class so that she can learn to keep her own records in the future.

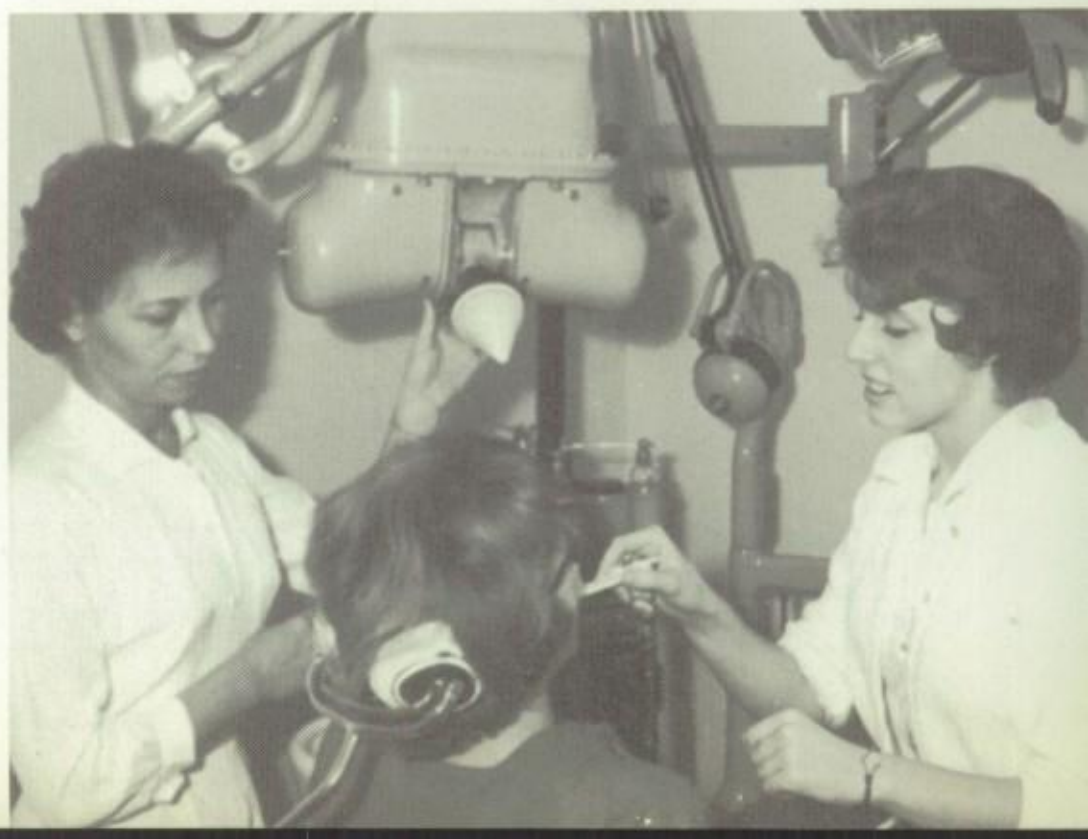
on-the-job training

earns money and experience

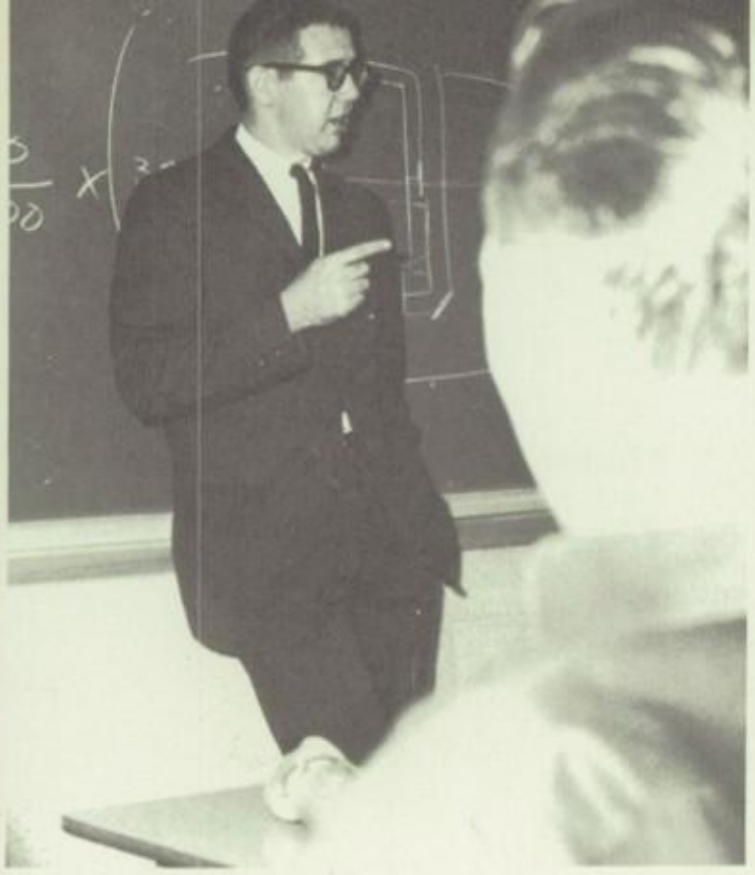
Mike Harding discusses with his employer the possibilities of a future in architecture.

Trade and Industry Cooperative Education is a unique class in that it is also a club. Eleven seniors, who took all required subjects except American government attended the two hour class daily and club meetings, Wednesday, A period. The students left the high school every day at 12:15 to report to their jobs, which were chosen on a basis of personal interest, ability and plans for the future.

Jack Tingle worked in a garage as his job for class work; here he is shown working under the hood of an engine.

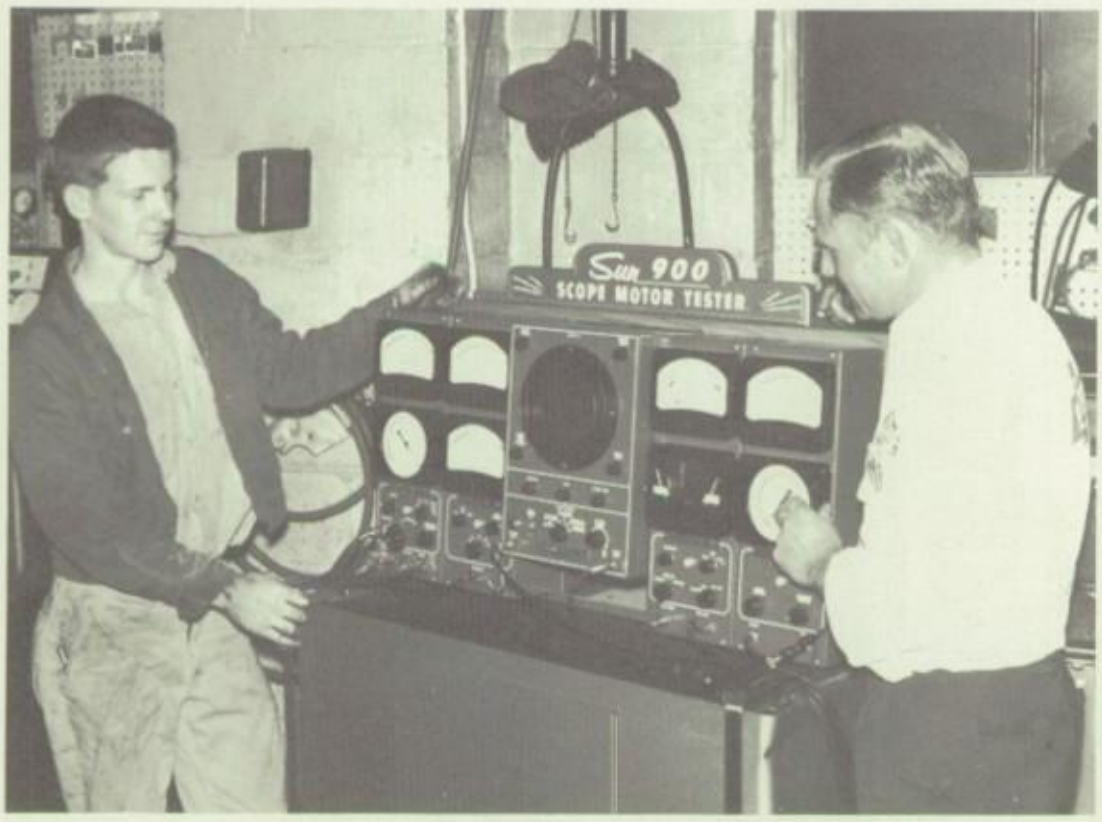


Student dental assistant Virginia Barland helped in one of the local offices in the afternoons in preparation for her vocation.



Instructor for Trade and Industry was Mr. Grove. Here he is seen lecturing to the class.

Mike Lee worked at the local paper in the afternoon helping in assembling the papers.



Ted Boyle worked at a local garage as an aid to the mechanics and also as one himself.

Sharon Corbin, also, worked as a dental assistant in a dentist's office to learn her future skill.

The play presented by the dramatics group in 1913 was the "Merchant of Venice."

Girls in a Y-teen skit practice back stage before a meeting of fun and enjoyment for the club's members.

The student council in 1913 had only thirteen members; today, 1963, the council has approximately 60 members who have a voice in student government.

organizations

Although LHS has many organizations, there is always room for additions. This year the boy's pep club was officially established and the chess club, which was started last year, gained momentum and members. Other organizations, the "old timers," established a stronger foundation and added new methods to their old.

student council

in administrative decisions

The primary objective of the student council this year was a better student government. This was accomplished under the able leadership of president, Alan Hitt, and sponsor, Max Stalcup.

Homecoming was under the direction of the student council and a new practice of a Homecoming dance on Saturday night was begun.

Among the usual tasks were the class elections in the fall, the March of Dimes Assembly, and the Christmas Formal.

The council also changed the Friday night varsities to informal parties with bands on Saturday night about once a month in the late winter and spring.

Students gathered as the Homecoming royalty danced at the Saturday night dance given by the Student Council.

The Student Council executive board pauses for a moment at the poll books during an upcoming election. They are Marilyn West, vice president; W. M. Stalcup, sophomore representative; Phyllis Babbitt, secretary; Judy Bernhardt, senior representative; Alan Hitt, president and Terry McCluggage, junior.

In their formal attire students take a rest at the Christmas Formal; they also waited eagerly for their "presents" from Santa.

Mr. Stalcup, advisor, attempts to teach the escorts how to do the hesitation step at practice early homecoming morning.

The Twist, Uptown, and UT are practiced by the students who attended the Saturday night dances which replaced varsities.

make many changes

start new traditions

Performing community deeds was the goal of Y-Teens. The organization has a membership of approximately 325 girls. These girls helped in completing many services which were rewarding experiences.

The club held coke party at the beginning of school to introduce prospective members to their organization.

Girls in the club at Thanksgiving collected food stuffs to deliver to needy families. They also began a new practice of presenting a choral Easter program to the people in the hospital.

With a variety of programs, the meetings were sparked with new enthusiasm. There were guest ministers, vocational people, and the annual fashion show in early spring.

The main social event was the Hi-Y Y-Teen spring dance, called the Hi-Teen Spring Fling. This party was an outdoor picnic type with games, relays, and lots of food.

Passing out and claiming Heart Sister gifts are Candy Rogers, Janis Miller, Patty Kuhn, and Margaretta Berger.

Virginia Bliesner, President, tells "Santa Claus" what she wants for Christmas.

promote christian spirit in member's future

The Hi-Y this year, although smaller than normal, had a very worthwhile year.

The boys met every Thursday and held meetings at which they had guest speakers and special programs.

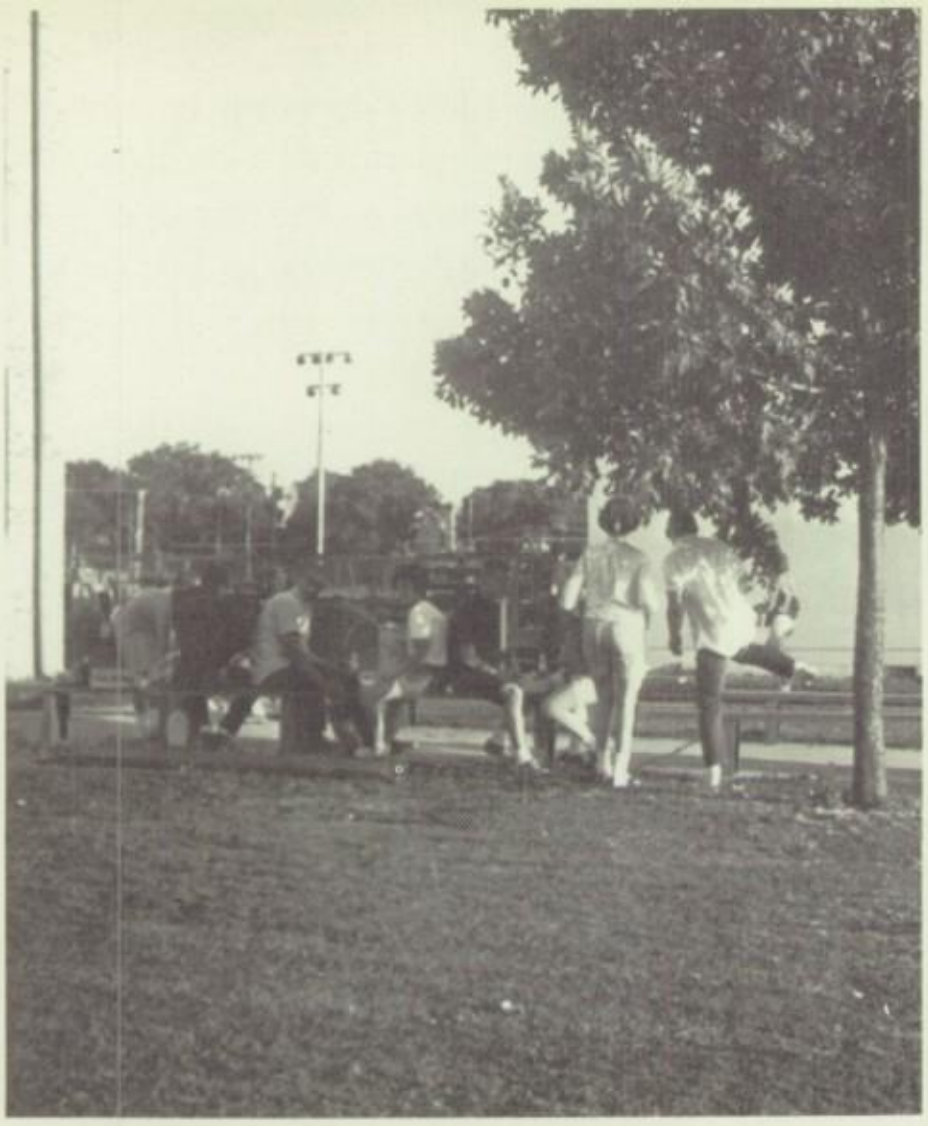
The highlight of the year was the cooperatively sponsored Hi-Teen Spring Fling, which was held on May 17. This was a picnic and fun evening for all the members and their dates. They enjoyed box suppers, free desert and fun and games afterward.

Many ended the night by attending the Thespian's mellerdrammer later in the evening.

Club members who attended the 'Fling' played some very vigorous games of volley ball for recreation.

Students at the picnic paused for time-out to munch on their box dinners prepared by the girls for their dates.

Senior members can be seen watching over the rest of the students to make sure that they behaved themselves.



Contented picnickers pause for their meal under the shade of an oak tree that grows by the gym.

Hungry for their dessert is the tail end of the line as they wait for the free dessert surprise.

Lounging after a rousing game of soft ball, seniors rest their tired bones.

Hi-Y officers this year were Ken Whitenight, special events; Charlie Pohl, treasurer; Rich Harp, President; Steve Page secretary; and Buzz Hull, vice President.

Membership in LHS Pep Club is open to any girl who wants to support the team. This year's club was one of the largest with about four hundred members. A star is given to the top ten girls with the most points earned by extra work.

The social season started with the W.P.A. (Women Pay All) in the fall and ended with the Spring Formal. Also, before the Wyandotte game a pep rally in the evening was highlighted with the burning of the "Bulldog." This year the Pep Club also sponsored five free busses to the Topeka football game to help give an extra boost to the team.

The class attendance competition game was at Topeka also during basketball. This year the sophomore class won with more than forty-four percent of the class present.

Pep Club officers brave the wind to pose at the Chesty Lion, mascot. They are Lu Surface, treasurer, Nancy Ulmer, vice president, Susie Campbell, point chairman and Carol Hadl, president.

A-team cheerleaders this year were Martha Lanning, Carol Eller, Clarice Richardson head cheerleader, Jill Kleinberg and Gwen Stuart.

boy's pep club

officially organized; boost spirit with girls

Boy's Pep Club was officially organized this year with set regulations and dues.

The club, under the sponsorship of Mr. Denny and Mr. Nelson, decided on jeans, white shirt and red ascot to be the official outfit.

The boys showed great team loyalty by having their own section and helping the girls in vocal support.

Boy's Pep Club officers this year were Tom Patchen, special events; Ken Phipps, treasurer; Jon Green, president; Ron Hopkins, attendance; and Dave Hatfield, vice-president.

Senior Ken Phipps, treasurer, writes out a receipt for one of the new members.

Quality and quantity were the aims of the Thespians this year, and under the direction of Millard Denny, the organization was able to present top-notch performances.

The childrens theater, which began in 1961-62, was continued with sponsorship by the Lawrence PTA. The students were able to give amusing and original interpretations to the standard fairy tale "Rumpelstiltskin" and also brought to the children a new play called "Flibbertygibbet" which seemed to fascinate the young audiences.

The group presented three other plays during the school year. They were the well-known play "Our Town" and a night of one-acts which included "The Old Lady Shows her Medals," "Spreading the News," and "The Infanta." They ended the year with a rip-snortin', wild shottin' Mellerdrammer, "Deadwood Dick" or "The Game of Gold."

Laura Mullaly and Jim McCalla are caught in a serious moment during the play "The Infanta."

Mr. Denny, director, pauses for a moment with part of his cast before the Christmas assembly given by the Thespians.

First rehearsals for "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals" caught these cast members, Mary Bodin, Liz Neelley and Patty McGrew.

Dress rehearsal for "Rumpelstiltskin" found Candy Williams knitting by her "brew" and Fred Emmons questioning her about some important problem.

Terpsichore is the modern dance group for girls at LHS. Their annual basketball season performance this year was an imitation of the Globe Trotters.

The dance group also added much to the annual Girl's Sports Show in April. They did original dance intrepretations of bullfights and special dances throughout the event produced under the advisorship of Mrs. Maxwell, girl's gym instructor.

Club members prepare to mount the stools they used for their dance during the sports show.

Mariela Vaz was a special performer in the 'Fiesta' since her home is Venezula.

Terpsichore officers this year were Mary Lee Robbins, president; Sherry Kennedy, vice president; Patty Russell, secretary; and Linda Heinrich, correographer.

help mrs. maxwell in class participate in intramurals

Leaders Club is the girls athletic club, composed of thirty girls. The cadets must pass a skill test, a written test and initiation. The Leaders help Mrs. Barbara Maxwell, sponsor, in gym classes, study rules and techniques of games, officiate intramural activities and are in charge of the annual Girls Sport Show.

This year's chairman were Sherry Kennedy, tumbling; Janice Salisbury, speedball and softball; Linda Kennedy, volleyball; Vicky Mingos, Karon Noland and Mary Lee Robbins, sports day; Nancy Ulmer and Barbara Wescoe, basketball; Martha Lanning, badminton; Vicky Mingos, posture contest; Judy Denton and Gretchen VanderWerf, track; Patty Munger, deck tennis; Karon Noland, fencing; and Clarice Richardson and Jill Klienberg, cadet trainers.

The Posture Contest was arranged by the members of Leaders Club. Shown here are Karen Noland, who came in second; Marilyn Burgert and Sheri Morey.

Leaders Club officers this year were Ronda Horner, secretary; Judy Bernhardt, president; Patty Moeder, vice president; and Mary Bodin, Point Secretary.

Girls in Leaders Club this year were Wescoe, Perry, Kennedy, Richardson, Eller, Vanderwerf, Moeder, Lanning and Kleinberg. FIRST ROW: Munger, Swartz, Mingos, Kimball, Heck, Horner, Zwink, D. Lanning, Bernhardt and Bodin.

science club

organized field trips make year successful

The Science club this year met on Mondays during A-period. It featured lectures by scientists from KU, reports by members concerning their individual interests.

One of the numerous outside activities in which the club members participated was field trips. A number of members were enrolled in advanced biology class and had special projects for the Science Fair.

Membership in the club is open to any student interested in any of the fields of science and also willing to promotes the objectives of the club.

Second semester officers were Barbara Michner, Treasurer; Alice Fitch, Historian; Robert McGee, Vice-President; Stan Husted, President; and Sue Ridgway, Secretary.

practice to gain more skill for state competition

Boys Gym Club encouraged boys to participate in gymnastics. LHS gymnasts placed well in every competitive meet under the direction of L.R. 'Dad' Perry. The gymnastics team took second place at the state meet.

The club enabled the boys who were on the gym team, plus boys who were interested, to practice their gymnastic skills and to participate in a club activity at the same time.

future secretaries

develop skills that will profit them in their vocation

The Future Secretaries of Lawrence Club is composed of girls from the office education class. They toured the paper company, had panel discussions and interviewed guest speakers. Their main objectives were to encourage good grooming, dress, attitudes, personality and self confidence when working for an employer.

Officers this year were Carol Blosser, Shiela Blevins, Bonnie Good, Margie Norris, Twila Lathrom and Karen Bookout.

Club president Linda Rice sits with Mrs. Dicker, R. N., as they listen to a guest speaker during one of their meetings.

With the increase of interest in the playing of chess the LHS students went along. The club's main activity was playing chess as might be expected.

Mr. Binns, the club's sponsor, promoted the game when he first came to LHS and it has caught on all over the school. Often times after school students can be seen playing the game in some quiet nook where concentration is a necessary item.

Besides just playing chess, the organization held tournaments throughout the year with playoffs often needed to determine the overall champion.

The two female officers in chess club were Sara Paresky, president and Linda Rye, secretary.

During the average meeting of chess club all the tables in the cafeteria are lined with rows and rows of chess boards and twice as many players as boards.

The photography staff this year was enlarged compared to years past. There were from four to eight different students who were, at one time, aiding in production on pictures for the yearbook and paper.

Ron Gustafson was in charge of the activities in the dark room. Steve Meseraull and Jim Busse were the main people who took the pictures. Steve Meseraull was also in charge of all pictures for both sections.

Senior photographers Steve Meseraull, Jim Busse and Ron Gustafson ham it up a little for their debut. They appear to be swamped in rolls and rolls of film; they usually were when deadline time came for the annual.

Being minus a league this year spurred all the athletic participants to bring honors home to LHS. The tops in some, and near misses in others, demonstrated that the teams did not need a league to snare victories for their alma mater.

football

adds another state crown
even without a league

"This is one of the finest football teams I have ever been associated with," Coach Al Woolard said of the 1962 team.

The Lions posted an undefeated season and were voted by state sportswriters as the number one football team in the state. This is the sixth state championship in seven years and the fifteenth straight win over a two-year period.

This "well balanced, star studded" squad could well be the best ever produced at LHS and in Kansas prep schools.

A trademark of the 1962 team was its tough defense. This was especially true against the opponents' ground game. The defenders relinquished only 377 rushing yards. The school record is 347, set by the 1952 team.

However, the team did establish a new pass interception record with 20 key interceptions.

A new record of 99 yards was set by junior Bill Trull in pass interception return.

A right halfback, Gary Ray, became the number two all-time LHS ball carrier. Ray became the first LHS ball-carrier to score 200 points in his career. This senior also established new single season and career touchdown figures. He scored a total of 19 TD's and 114 points.

Coach Woolard said the 1951 and 1952 teams were better in specialized areas. "But, when all is combined, the '62 Lions were, perhaps, the best all-round team I've coached."

Her attendants were Carol Eller, escorted by Richard Harp and Clarice Richardson accompanied by Steve Page.

The Queen and her attendants were encircled during the cornation by the LHS band and pep club, forming a heart and sun bursts.

The Homecoming Dance was held Saturday evening. Judy was escorted by Jack Kuhn; Carol by Gary Ray; and Clarice by Tom Patchen. Autographed footballs were presented to Judy and her attendants by tri-captains Ron Hopkins, Halley Kampschroeder and Gary Ray.

The student body nominated 48 senior girls for queen from which the football team picked the six finalists. The student body then voted for the queen and her attendants.

good seasons record

The LHS Basketball team did well this year, winning third in the Dodge City "Tournament of Champions," and third in the Regionals in Topeka, missing the finals by one point. Senior Ralph Light set records for most points scored in a single game, 36, and best average for a single season, 19.1 per game. He tied Bill Royer's record of 637, most points scored in total years playing. Seniors in their last year of play were Harold Kimball, Kalley Kampschroeder and Ralph Light.

gymnastics;

novice competitors make good records for LHS

The LHS gymnastics team was most successful this year. Besides winning many intra-state meets, the team placed second among the eighteen schools participating in the state gymnastics meet in Wichita on February 23. On the still rings, Richard Seaver, junior, placed first and Wayne Dixon second. Alan Mullaly won second on the horizontal bar and Jimmie Gillespie took fourth on the side horse.

As this year's team was mainly composed of underclassmen, next year's team is expected to have an even better record.

team represents lhs in fine form in regionals

This season was one of the finest in the history of LHS, and it was only by one place that the team missed going to the state competition.

In the two-man division Richard Harp and Phil Kurata were defeated only by SM-East.

The entire squad showed a constant team effort and skill at every meet they attended.

There were five senior lettermen on the squad who will not be returning. They are Alan Hitt, Richard Harp, Todd McCluggage, Ken Kreye and Larry Mignot.

have fine showing in state despite bad weather

The golf team this year was the largest in the history of LHS. At the beginning of the season over 25 boys signed-up to participate.

Since LHS is not in a league it was more difficult to schedule meets. One meet was an invitational at the Lawrence Country Club. And the team succeeded in many outside meets to take their share of honors.

At the end of the season the four-man team qualified in the regionals for a berth in the state meet held in Wichita. The boys brought home eighth place which spoke well for the team as they had very few experienced players.

best showing for lhs in many years—fourth in state

The 1963 track team brought home a fourth place, LHS' best in 40 years, in the state meet to climax an overall profitable year for LHS.

With seven meets and the Baker Invitational on the record, LHS won three, which makes an enviable season.

The state meet in Wichita saw Lawrence seniors break two records, Leonard Vann in the pole vault and Ralph Light in the high jump.

sports show

black team victory evens record at 4-4

Fiesta, the 1963 Girls Sports Show, an annual event at LHS, was won this year by the Black Team. This show was sponsored by the girls physical education department.

Points were scored in relays, volleyball, basketball and ticket sales. Also, new this year was the class competition in five events.

This was the eighth year of competition for the two teams. The Red Team has won four years and the Black, four.

In the results this year Black won three of the five relays, executed by the sophomores. Volleyball went to the Black Team juniors, after which the Red Team seniors hit hard to win the basketball game.

The deciding factor this year was the ticket sales which Black won.

The entire Sports Show was planned by the LHS leaders Club. The captains were elected early in the spring and positions were also assigned at the same time. The captains this year were Mary Bodin, Black, and Barbara Wescoe, Red.

Senior Mary Bodin was captain of the victorious Black Team in the 1963 Girls Sports Show.

energetic students participate in after school tournaments

The first intramural sport this year was deck tennis. A total of 29 teams consisting of six members played in a bracket elimination tournament. Basketball came next; these games were played in the afternoon and evening on Tuesdays.

Volleyball was the largest of the intramural sports this year with a total of 32 six-member teams playing. The sport was divided into two class groups, sophomores and upperclassmen.

The last two intramural programs of the season were softball and badminton, which were played after school during the last nine weeks.

The boys intramurals were basketball and volleyball.

Winners in the boys city league were Mike Wempe, Gary Brizendine, Randy Wells, W. M. Stalcup, Mike Smith, Gary Ray, Jim Gillispie and Rob Miller.

Senior basketball and volleyball winners were Judy Bernhardt, Clarice Richardson, Mary Bodin, Carol Eller, Karon Noland, Jill Klienberg, Ruth Berg and Mary Lee Robbins.

Winner of deck tennis this year was the team of Linda Bolton, Barbara West, Elaine Stoltenberg, Merrill Sampson, Pat Leone, Ellen Stoltenberg and Liz Rowland.

One of the winners in basketball was the team of Laura Mullaly, Sonnie Snedeger, Sheri Mitchell, Kay Everest, Virginia Freeman, Charlene Hawkins and Susan Still.

Senior winners in basketball and volleyball had on their team Carol Sullivan, Nancy Ulmer, Barbara Wescoe, Judy Denton and Vicky Mingos.

Underclassmen today enjoy a moment of relaxation in the cafeteria during their lunch hour.

With a sophomore class of over five hundred and a junior class of over four hundred, the underclassmen had quite an advantage. All students in these two classes have worked hard to make their respective classes the best to ever attend LHS.

The class of '63 was one of many achievements.

A record number of scholarships and new marks in sports added to the already long list of the class's accomplishments. With such honors as governor of Boys State, nine National Merit Finalists and three winners, two Watkins and two Summerfield scholars, the class of '63 left a record that will be difficult to match.

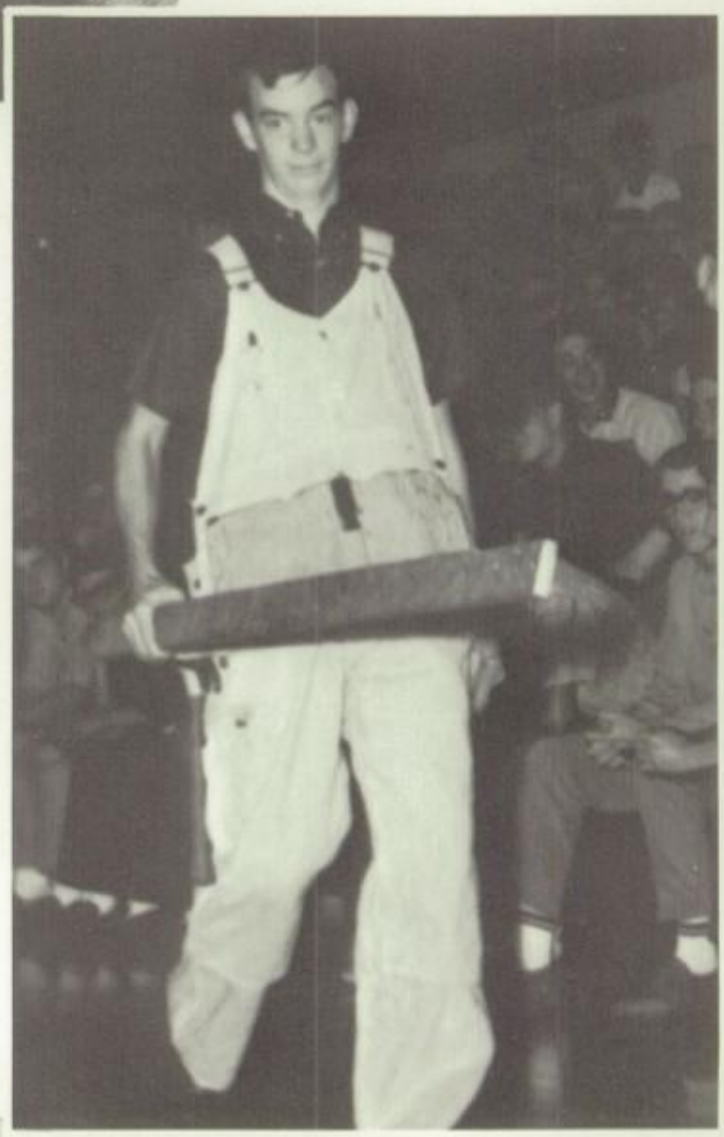
ALMA MATER

We praise thee Lawrence High School,
To you we're always true,
And through the years fond memories
Bring back the friends we knew.
Sportsmanship and courage
We will never lack,
And evermore we lift our hearts
In praise of Red and Black.



The uninhibited seniors often performed in the pep assemblies during the year.

Seniors were often the ones who were the eagerest to leave when the bell rang at 3:12.

This year's spring activities will always remain in the memories of the class of '63. Greater advancement in athletics, plus the Junior-Senior Prom, plus the Hi-Teen Spring Fling, plus the graduation week hurry-and scurry will never be completely forgotten by the seniors.

boy's-girl's state

lions bring home top officials of state wide program

LHS was honored in the early summer of 1962 when then-Junior Ken Whitenight was elected governor of Boy's State. Many events grew from just one election; Ken went to Washington D.C. twice during the year that followed and also spoke before the Kansas legislature.

Four other boys represented LHS at Boy's State: Allen Hitt, Charlie Pohl, Richard Harp and Halley Kampschroeder.

The three girls who attended Girl's State, Karen Kimball, Phyllis Babbitt and Gwen Stuart, all earned the Lion's share of honors for LHS.

Ken still had time between his many activities to show his brother Jim a few of his many Congressional Records that he accummulated.

Representing Boy's State this year were Alan Hitt, Ken Whitenight, Halley Kampschroeder, Rich Harp and Charlie Pohl.

Karen Kimball, Gwen Stuart and Phyllis Babbitt went to Girl's State representing LHS.

underclass give seniors best prom in history of school

The Junior-Senior Prom this year was one of the best that LHS has ever seen. Under the direction of the junior class officers the theme was decided, "A Summer Place." The theme was carried out with a fountain located in the center of a beautiful garden with fresh trees surrounding it. Streamers of blue gave the effect of a clear beautiful summer sky.

The Prom this year was a great success and the attendance proved that point. It was apparent that the junior class outdid themselves to provide the class of '63 with a very impressive farewell formal.

A garden gate with a 63 inscribed opened the way to the summer garden at the Prom.

A pre-party for seniors was held by Virginia Bliesner in her back yard. Here couples can be seen enjoying the cool evening before the start of the Prom.

Several couples demonstrated their dancing skill by doing the cha-cha-cha.

In formal attire, the maze of couples can be seen through the blue streamers from the balcony in the gym which was, for one night, transformed in a summer garden.

Scott Nelson plus other talented seniors played at the dinner to help promote giving for the class gift.

class ends year with gala dinner at school

Senior class members showed in overwhelming attendance at the senior banquet. The theme was 'Bon Voyage.'

The dinner was a great success with wonderful food and wonderful entertainment provided by some of the class members who were more musically inclined.

With the primary purpose to collect the rest of the money needed for the class gift, the dinner ended with success.

The banquet came to a close with a few parting words by retiring principal Mr. Wherry who wished the class members best of luck.

Members of the senior class enjoyed a wonderful meal at the dinner and the special company was a special attraction.

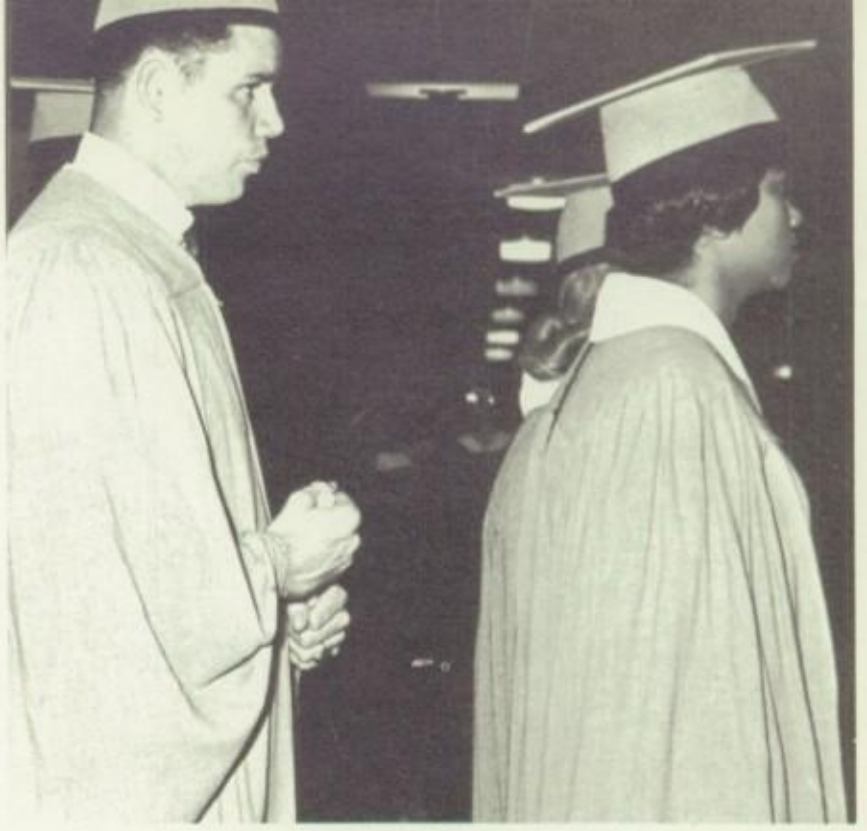
Satia Turner, Nancy Maloney and Cindy Brown count the money that was collected at the dinner that put the seniors over their goal.

baccalaureate

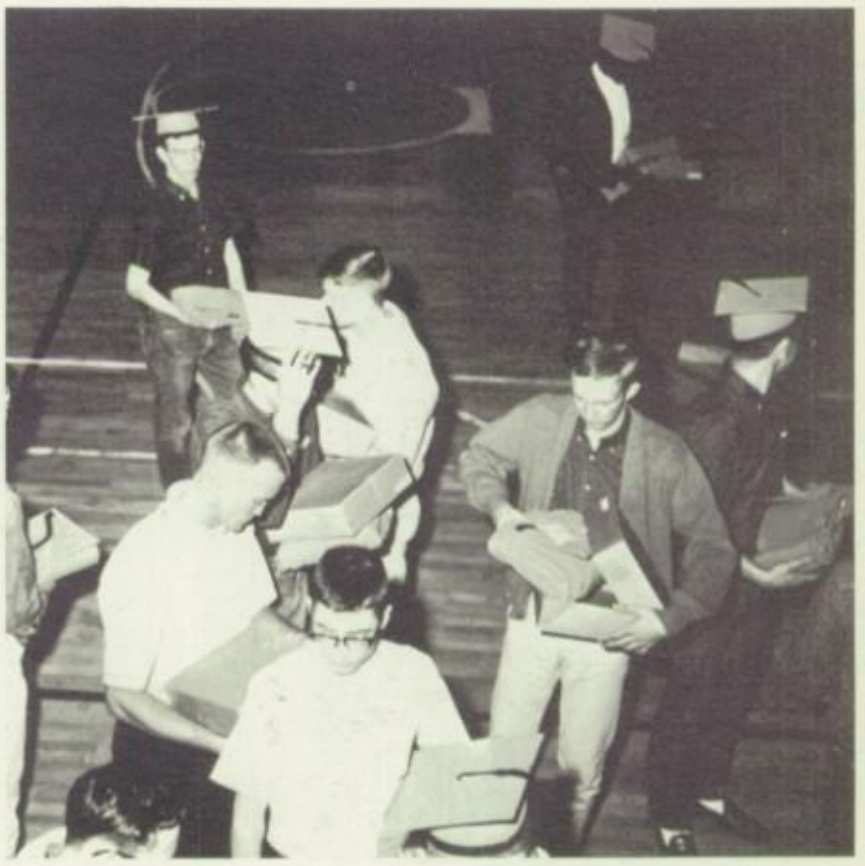
inspiring sermon given to class in sunday ritual

Baccalaureate this year, as every year, was held Sunday afternoon in the LHS auditorium. The class marched to their seats to the orchestra's playing of "Holy, Holy, Holy." Because of threatening weather, they did not walk along the outside walk into the auditorium.

After the traditional opening given by the succeeding Hi-Y and Y-Teen presidents, Rev. M. C. Allen delivered the sermon to the seniors and guests.



Seniors Dan Samuels and Janice Salisbury march into the auditorium for the Sunday Baccalaureate services.



Seniors received their caps and gowns during the Baccalaureate practice. Although it was a little bit of a chore to get everything straight, the class of '63 got through it.

Mr. Logsdon and Mr. Stalcup direct the seniors with instructions about their seating arrangement for the Sunday service.

graduation

class of '63 receive their diplomas to end LHS career

Graduation exercises this year were held on a Tuesday evening. The seniors were delighted to have a beautiful night for their processional. As is the custom they began their march at exactly 8 o'clock.

The class and guests were privileged to have as their speaker Dr. Clarke Wescoe, Chancellor of the University of Kansas who, in excellent style, gave a very inspiring speech for the seniors.

The program then went on to the presentation of the 319 diplomas to the graduates.

A bit of nostalgia came to every senior, even though they would not admit it, when the Alma Mater was sung for the last official time.

Dr. Wescoe is pictured while delivering his graduation address to the seniors at Hoch Auditorium. Also on the platform with him is the school board, Superintendent Dr. Carl Knox and LHS Principal Neal M. Wherry, who presented the diplomas to the graduating class.

Special praise and thanks must be given to the many people who aided the staff in completing the 1963 RED & BLACK.

To the Journal-World, especially Mr. Dolph Simons, Jr. and Wilber Hess, thank you for all the football pictures and help, both of which helped the final completion of the yearbook.

To Mr. Estes thank you for getting all the hit-and-miss pictures that I so often needed, and the beautiful pictures of the large organizations.

As for the staff, I think that I couldn't have gotten through the year without that personable junior, Reese W. Whenever we wanted cheering up, and even when we didn't, there he was to add a little laughter to our day. Good luck with the R & B next year, Reese.

With only 2 other principal members on the staff we succeeded, and only because they were Janet M. and Mary P. They were so patient with my poor explanations and directions.

To the photographers Steve M., Ron G. and Jim B., goes my thanks and appreciation; you were so sweet to put up with me.

I don't know how I dould have finished without the help I got from the wonderful senior girls in fifth hour journalism Nancy S., Nancy M., Karon N., Vicky M.,and Janice M.

Overall thanks and sincerest gratitude goes to the faculty and administration for tolerating all of the time-consuming things that I needed.

Deepest thanks goes to the Myers Yearbook Company for their patience and help that I needed and which they gave willingly.

Most of all, goes thanks to the students for not fussing too much about the late delivery and waiting patiently for the delivery to come.

I sincerely hope that you the students, and especially the SENIORS, are pleased with the 1963 RED & BLACK.

In gratitude,

Jenni

Best wishes for the schoolyear! Hope your summer has been the most!
